LUOTO climbing arch

LUOTO climbing arch is a multi-functional children's furniture. It has been designed to support active play and diverse development of gross motor skills, coordination, balance, and strength. Climbing fulfills children's natural built-in need to learn new things and learning to climb is a wonderful way to get physically active and build children's confidence. In addition to climbing the arch can be used for example as a rocker, play fort, or activity table and with children's imagination it will even transform into a pirate ship, a cash register, or a toy jail!

The climbing arch is made from sustainably produced high quality birch plywood and it comes in four different colorways. Thanks to its many functions LUOTO is an ideal piece of furniture for small homes with limited spaces as it can be used for various different activities. Its transformability and timeless design will also ensure that it will be a long lasting investment as it converts into a modern and minimalistic side table with one flip whenever play time is over.
